

Astronomers and Astronomy at the Slovak Institutes of Astronomy

Iwan Williams

Over the last 70 years there were many important scientific advances in meteor science. Coinciding with this, an astronomical Institute of the Slovak Academy of Sciences was set up. Over the years, many famous meteor scientists have been part of these Institutes and this presentation will summarize both the new science that evolved and the scientists that contributed over these years.